From the CEO

Almost two years ago, construction began on 41X. But, as many of you know, the project's inception dates back to 2006, when National Council commissioned a detailed feasibility study for the site, encompassing a range of potential options for its future. These options varied from renovation to relocation. After extensive consultation, National Council decided that the site would be redeveloped into a small office tower that would set the standards in Australian architecture.

From the Chapter

After two weeks leave, including time camping and mountain biking in the Flinders, it is good to be back at the Chapter. During my absence we have been advised of another Ideas

Competition -- this time in Hong Kong. The 'Design Ideas Competition for Preservation Corridor for Lung Tsun Stone Bridge Remnants' is a government run ideas competition that sees Adelaide's Liz Vines (McDougall and Vines) engaged as the Head Juror, who is a renowned local heritage architect.

Be part of One:One Adelaide

One:One is a fun, fast paced design and build collaboration between architects and students, with the aim of forging relationships and forming a creative discourse. This year in Adelaide we will be splitting 60 professionals and students into 10 groups, each group will design & build 1/10th of a bar out of recycled material. Held at The Mill Adelaide for a on Friday 15 November. Upon completion, the bar will be opened up for use for an after party on the same night from 5.30pm to showcase all the creations with people from both the design industry and the general public.
