From the President

The Australian architectural industry is mourning the tragic death of Tasmanian-born architect, Ross Langdon and his partner Elif Yavuz, who were killed during the Nairobi shopping centre attack on Sunday 22nd September.

The Tasmanian Chapter of the Australian Institute of Architects have paid tribute to Mr Langdon, saying he was a well-respected member of the close-knit architectural community, not only in Tasmania, but also throughout Australia and overseas.

Ross had his roots in Tasmania, but quickly went on to share his skills and vision in other parts of the world, taking his passion for architecture to places as far away as Uganda.

The Institute would like to pass on our heartfelt condolences to Ross's family and to members of the architectural community in Tasmania, many of whom will have been touched by this terrible tragedy.
