2012:

where is architecture going?

what is driving the architecture of today and of tomorrow?

is it the architecture schools?
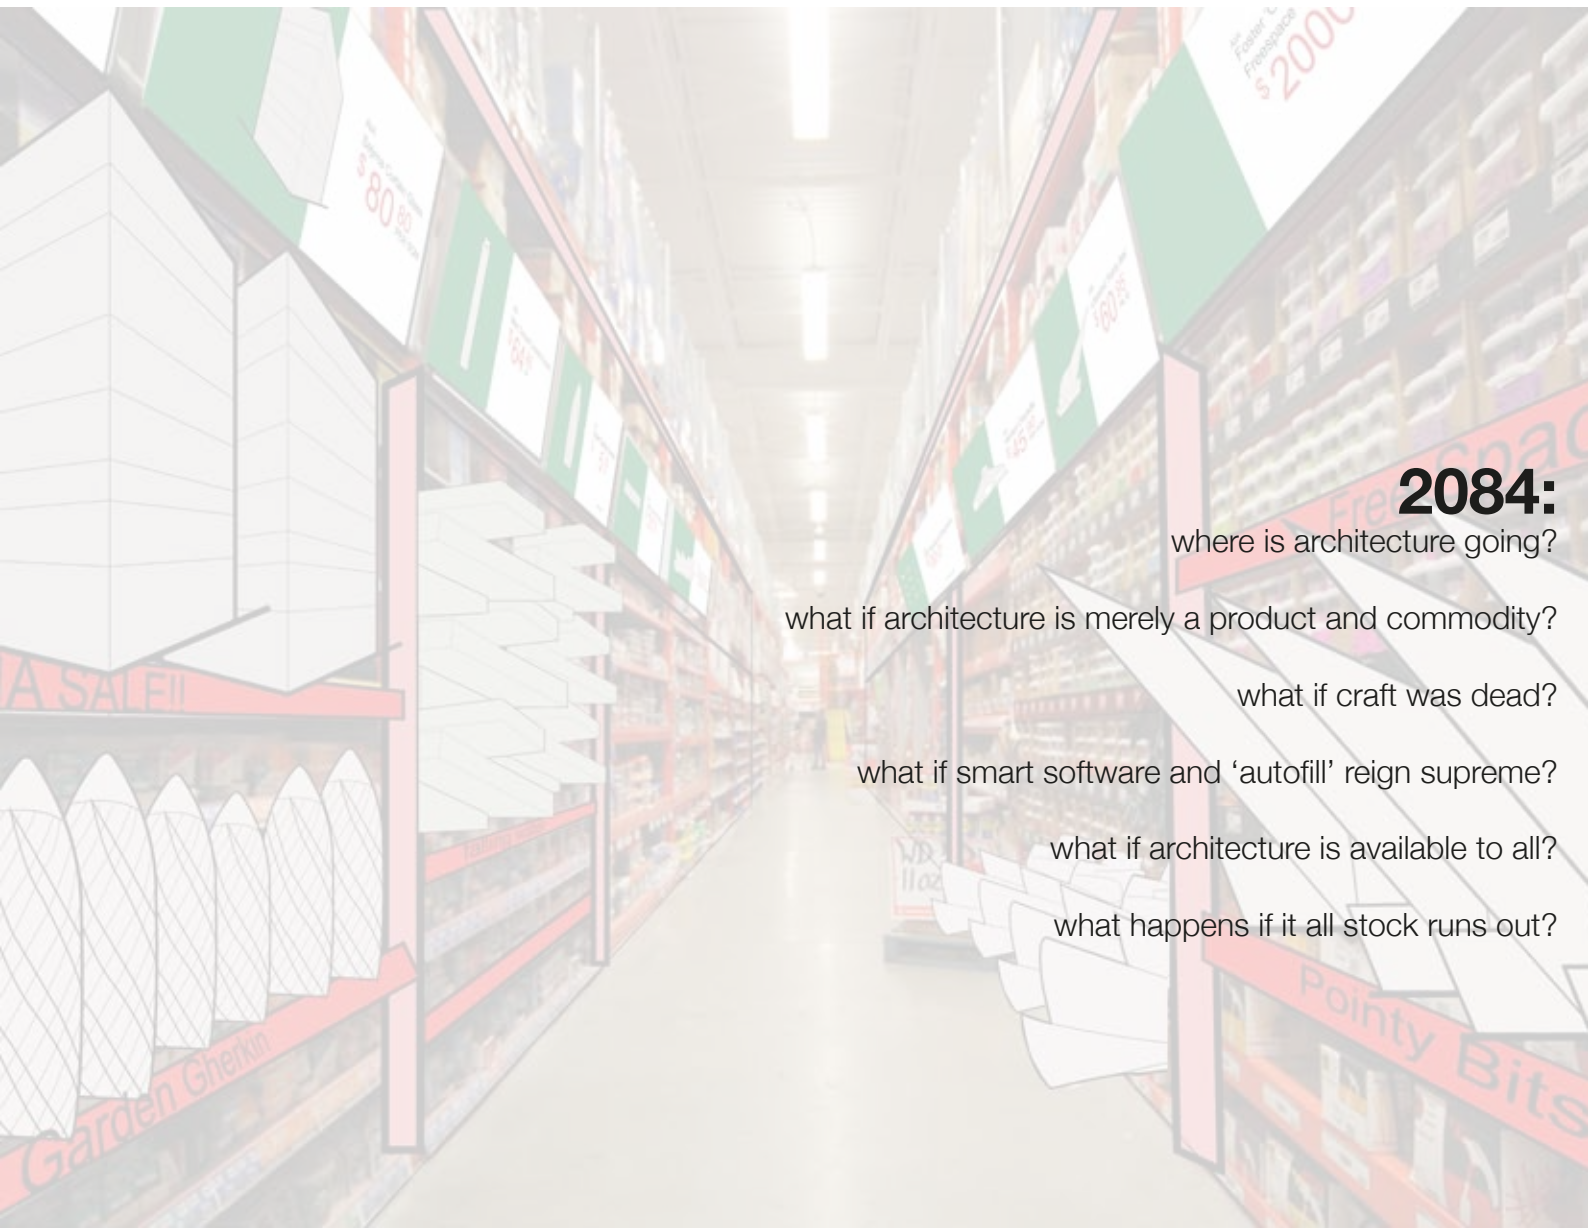

is it the architects?

is it the clients?

is it the property developers?

are architectural thinkers influencing the built environment?

what happens if they lose control?

'the past was dead, the future was unimaginable' - george orwell, 1984.

2084:

where is architecture going?

what if architecture is merely a product and commodity?

what if craft was dead?

what if smart software and 'autofill' reign supreme?

what if architecture is available to all?

what happens if it all stock runs out?